Art Unit: 2614

1. The title of the invention is not descriptive. A new title is required that is clearly indicative of the invention to which the claims are directed. Note MPEP 606.01.

2. Applicant is reminded of the proper language and format for an abstract of the disclosure.

The abstract should be in narrative form and generally limited to a single paragraph on a separate sheet within the range of 50 to 150 words. It is important that the abstract not exceed 150 words in length since the space provided for the abstract on the computer tape used by the printer is limited. The form and legal phraseology often used in patent claims, such as "means" and "said," should be avoided. The abstract should describe the disclosure sufficiently to assist readers in deciding whether there is a need for consulting the full patent text for details.

The language should be clear and concise and should not repeat information given in the title. It should avoid using phrases which can be implied, such as, "The disclosure concerns," "The disclosure defined by this invention," "The disclosure describes," etc.

3. The following guidelines illustrate the preferred layout for the specification of a utility application. These guidelines are suggested for the applicant's use.

Arrangement of the Specification

As provided in 37 CFR 1.77(b), the specification of a utility application should include the following sections in order. Each of the lettered items should appear in upper case, without underlining or bold type, as a section heading. If no text follows the section heading, the phrase "Not Applicable" should follow the section heading:

- (a) TITLE OF THE INVENTION.
- (b) CROSS-REFERENCE TO RELATED APPLICATIONS.
- (c) STATEMENT REGARDING FEDERALLY SPONSORED RESEARCH OR DEVELOPMENT.
- (d) INCORPORATION-BY-REFERENCE OF MATERIAL SUBMITTED ON A COMPACT DISC (See 37 CFR 1.52(e)(5) and MPEP 608.05. Computer program listings (37 CFR 1.96(c)), "Sequence Listings" (37 CFR 1.821(c)), and tables having more than 50 pages of text are permitted to be submitted on compact discs.) or
REFERENCE TO A "MICROFICHE APPENDIX" (See MPEP § 608.05(a). "Microfiche Appendices" were accepted by the Office until March 1, 2001.)
- (e) BACKGROUND OF THE INVENTION.

Art Unit: 2614

- (1) Field of the Invention.
- (2) Description of Related Art including information disclosed under 37 CFR 1.97 and 1.98.
- (f) BRIEF SUMMARY OF THE INVENTION.
- (g) BRIEF DESCRIPTION OF THE SEVERAL VIEWS OF THE DRAWING(S).
- (h) DETAILED DESCRIPTION OF THE INVENTION.
- (i) CLAIM OR CLAIMS (commencing on a separate sheet).
- (j) ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE (commencing on a separate sheet).
- (k) SEQUENCE LISTING (See MPEP § 2424 and 37 CFR 1.821-1.825. A "Sequence Listing" is required on paper if the application discloses a nucleotide or amino acid sequence as defined in 37 CFR 1.821(a) and if the required "Sequence Listing" is not submitted as an electronic document on compact disc).

4. The drawings are objected to because all block circuitry must be labeled in compliance with rules 83(a) and 84(o). A proposed drawing correction or corrected drawings are required in reply to the Office action to avoid abandonment of the application. The objection to the drawings will not be held in abeyance.

5. The disclosure is objected to because of the following informalities: Applicant describes (in the abstract, the specification, and the claims) his subfields as one number thereof having a "different" on-period. That term does not seem accurate in its context (nor is explained how an on-period differs from another; different from what is not specified). Applicant likely intended to describe in some manner a variable on-period, which more clearly indicates that the on-time of the second group differs from the on-time period of the first and/or differs among its component fields.

Appropriate correction is required.

Art Unit: 2614

6. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

Claims 1-3, 7 and 8 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over McKnight (cited and provided by applicant).

The matrix display system of McKnight (noting particularly Figs. 4A- 5B), which could be LED-type or of any known kind (col. 12 lines 15-32) involves subfield coding to achieve higher quality display by applying gray scale values to the picture elements spanning 256 values (i.e. 2^8 levels: col. 10 lines 21-28). A first group of subframes (i.e. fields or subfields) are characterized by exhibiting a fixed duration and a variable on-period, whereas a second group of subframes is presented at a fixed duration and a fixed on-time period (col. 1 lines 40-57). The determination is made by an inherent controlling component, the processing stages shown in flow charts of Figs. 4D and 5B).

Although "large-screen" display is not specifically disclosed, it would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art to apply the improved gray-scale matrix display to any size display device to thereby enable improved viewing to an extended body of available devices, particularly in view of the fact that McKnight does not limit his matrix display devices to a specific group but allows for any type, giving an open-ended statement therefor (noting again col. 12 lines 15-32), thereby meeting claims 1, 7 and 8.

Art Unit: 2614

As for claim 2, as shown in the comparison between Figs. 4A – 4C, the least significant bits are used to vary the duration time (note further col. 8 lines 23-42 discussing frame group designations based on LSBs and MSBs).

As for claim 3, col. 14 line 33+ discusses the condition of a subframe group being based on significant bit counts, and that a duration of a subframe sequence being a function of a power of two.

7. The prior art made of record and not relied upon is considered pertinent to applicant's disclosure.

8. Claims 4-6 appear allowable over the prior art.
